

FCC:

I am a working mother. I drop my one-year-old son off at day care at 8 am and pick him up at 6 in order to work my 9-5 job. When I get home all I want to do is spend time with him. I make dinner and my family eats together and then we go play or read stories until he goes to bed at 8. My family and friends know not to call before 8:30. Telemarketers call at the worse possible time and kepp calling despite being asked to stop. What gives them the right to steal my time away from my son? To ring my phone at ridiculous hours and make me run to the phone when I'm in the middle of something else.

What's really ridiculous is that if I need to refinance my mortgage, renovate my home or subscribe to magazines, I will seek them out on my own. I will never patronize a company that does telemarketing and I don't want them calling my home. Let the NJ Do Not Call list stand as it is. Please.

Sincerely,
Juli Ruffing
